

Master's Degree Program in Public Administration Auburn University at Montgomery (AUM) Program Fact Sheet (Fall 2024)

The Auburn University at Montgomery Master's Degree Program in Public Administration (MPA) offers a curriculum that provides students with the training essential for understanding and solving today's complex policy problems, thereby positioning students for opportunities across the public, non-profit, and private sectors.

The program requires completion of twelve courses (36 credit hours) at a 3.0 GPA or higher. Program requirements include six core courses, five electives, and a capstone seminar that is taken in the student's final semester. A current plan of study is available on the program's webpage: <https://www.aum.edu/degree/public-administration-master/>

The program welcomes full-time and part-time students. Full-time students, those who take at least three courses in both the fall and spring semesters, can complete the program in four semesters. Most students opt to take fewer courses per semester and complete the program within six or seven semesters.

Class Format and Meeting Times

The primary mode of delivery for the program's courses is face-to-face. However, several core courses are offered in hybrid format (a combination of classroom meetings and online sessions) and fully online formats. Electives are offered in all formats.

Face-to-face classes are offered in the evenings from 5:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. on the AUM campus and each class meets one evening per week on either Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday. Courses are also available during the summer semesters.

Program classes are small, ranging from five to ten students. The small class size enables students to work closely with faculty and other students. In addition, our small classes offer students numerous opportunities to ask questions and receive individualized attention and feedback from faculty. In Fall 2024, the program included eleven students and four full-time faculty members.

Scholarships

Incoming MPA students are eligible for the university's Graduate Focus Scholarship which provides a tuition scholarship. It reduces tuition by about twenty-five percent. Opportunities for additional merit-based scholarships are available from various units at Auburn University at Montgomery and the Department of Political Science and Public Administration. These merit scholarships are generally offered to continuing students. All enrolled students are invited to apply.

Internships

Students can receive up to six credit hours (equivalent to two elective courses) for internships with a relevant public, non-profit, or private-sector entity so long as the student fulfills the program's internship requirements. Recent internships were held with the following organizations:
